

MUST SMELL OF SAGEBRUSH

Senator Skaggs puts an Odoriferous Qualification on Office Seekers

Senator Skaggs of Elko has arrived in this city and is at the Ormsby House. He talked freely on the Senatorial situation and said:

"I was elected two years ago in Elko county. I ran independent and made my fight on the proposition of Home rule in Nevada, and Nevada for Nevadans. I told my audiences that any man to get my vote for any office must smell of sagebrush, and if there is any office in this State too good for a Nevada I am in favor of abolishing it. I have always fought for this principle and always will, and I am glad to see people coming my way.

"I am for Judge Fitzgerald of Eureka for the U. S. Senate, he is able, he is pure and above all he smells of sagebrush. He has been living here for at least twenty years, and everything he has on earth is in this State. When a man owns more property in California than he does in Nevada I class him as a Californian. I don't for a moment depreciate Jones' great ability as a political leader, my only objection to him is that his home and interests are in California and he don't stay here long enough to have the pungent sage smell that I like in office seekers, and I told him so in Elko a few days ago when we had a friendly talk on the subject.

"I believe that the State has given too many offices to people who spend all their money in California, and when their terms of office are up haven't a rod of land in Nevada to show for the money they drew out of the treasury.

"If the Nixon-Jones fight comes to a dead-lock, I think both forces will unite on Fitzgerald. A. C. Cleveland will also come in the fight with some support."

The town seems to be rapidly filling up with strangers.

The storm seems to be over and has left the roads in a horrible condition.

A bill has been introduced in the Pennsylvania Legislature to dispose of criminals with gas instead of hanging. The APPEAL advocated this system over six years ago, and, if we are not mistaken, was the first paper in the United States to do so.

A man on Carson street yesterday was taken to task by his wife because he swore at some youngsters who pelted him with snow balls. "I'm swearing to please the youngsters. Don't you know they like to hear it?"

The courts have decided that plunger Riley Grannen cannot go on the race course of the New York Jockey Club, he having violated a club rule by giving presents to the jockies. This may in the long run be money in Grannen's pocket.

The Queen of England has raised to the peerage a physician who has successfully attended her in delicate family events. It is said that some London comic paper has suggested that whenever a Queen's accoucher is elevated to the peerage that he be called "Lord Deliverus." This, however, seems to be too good a joke to come from the Isle of Great Britain.

PRIZE FIGHT RUMORS.

Some Dispatches That are Pure Fakes.

The following dispatch appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle of Monday:

Something more than two months ago Dan Stuart made a trip to Carson where he sought out Attorney-General Beatty, who has since died, and held several secret consultations with him. Stuart remained in Carson for several days, and just before leaving engaged the services of a surveyor, with whom he went to the Carson race track. Inside the track inclosure they surveyed and staked off ground for a large building.

A reputable man of Nevada, who was a close personal friend of Beatty, says he held a conversation with the late Attorney-General before the latter was taken sick and was informed by him that at Stuart's request he had carefully gone through the laws of the State to ascertain if there was anything in the books prohibiting prize fighting, but had failed to find a single word that could be construed as forbidding the sport.

With this knowledge, Beatty said, Stuart went to the proper State officials who were advised by Attorney-General Beatty and asked for an iron-clad license that would permit him to bring off the next championship fight in the State without possibility of interference. The officials saw no objection to do as he desired in case the revenue to be deprived by the State was sufficient. Mr. Beatty did not make known the figure.

Dispatches of similar purport appeared in other San Francisco papers. The APPEAL interviewed the State officers and they say that the statement made in the dispatches are pure fakes. No such agreement was ever had with the Attorney-General or with any of the State officers on the subject by Dan Stuart or anybody else.

The talk about an iron-clad license with the State and the payment of a large sum of money to the authorities is on a par with the rest of the statement which came by wire from some imaginative news gatherer in Chicago.

Funeral of L. W. Robinson.

About 200 Virginia people attended the funeral of Lafe Robinson, which took place in this city yesterday afternoon. The special train conveying the body arrived at 2 p. m., and the line of march was immediately formed and proceeded directly to the cemetery. Rev. Eddie of Carson delivered the funeral address in Virginia before the train departed.

The Artillery band headed the line of march and was followed by Battery A. N. N. G., Company F. N. N. G., Virginia and Carson G. A. R., Virginia and Carson K. of P., about 75 members of Woman's Relief Corps and Daughters of Rebecca and Brotherhood of Locomotive Fireman. The floral pieces were beautiful and the coffin was literally covered with flowers. A broken wheel came from the B. of L. F. and a large white heart from the G. A. R., the other Societies sending equally beautiful pieces. The pall bearers consisted of two from every order attending.

Cheeny Drew the Line.

In all of Cheeny's decisions on the election law he has drawn the line sharply of all infringements of the election law. In the Updyke-Peers contest in Washoe he threw out the Brown precinct because the officers of election went into the booths and took sample ballots away from the voters. This was a correct ruling, as the officers clearly acceded their authority.

Nevada Coal.

Nevada has never been known as a coal producer, but of late several discoveries have been made. The Nevada Central Railway Company has eight men at work on a coal mine Crum Canyon near Battle Mountain and the prospects are favorable for the development of extensive coal bed.

In Esmeralda county, not far from Columbus, coal mines have been discovered and the coal is being used at Columbus and Candelaria for domestic purposes.

DIED.

In Virginia City, Jan. 13, 1897, Mrs. Mary Noonan, aged 57 years. She leaves two sons, James and Mike Noonan and a daughter, Mrs. Dan O'Brien of Carson. The remains will be brought to Carson today, where they will be interred in the Catholic cemetery.

J. J. Cooney, the San Francisco Notary who swore that Fair acknowledged a deed to Mrs. Craven in his office, has been arrested on the charge of perjury with bail fixed at $10,000.

"MONKEY-WRENCH" WILSON.

A Pen Sketch of a Sturdy Sagebrush Developer.

The Salt Lake Tribune gives the following graphic sketch of a man well known all over Nevada:

Night before last at the home of Mr. J. H. Garrison of this city, old man James Wilson died. He was known in Nevada in the old days as "Monkey-wrench Wilson, because, in defense of his own life, he killed a man with a monkey wrench. He was an Argonaut. He sailed for California in '49. For ten years he worked as a miner and a blacksmith in California. Then he drifted to the Carson river and was engaged in placer mining when the rush to the Comstock began. Ten years later he was in eastern Nevada, burning charcoal at Eureka. From there he drifted to Deep Creek, and there for twenty years he was a prospector and miner, and gathered together some valuable properties. Four years ago he came to this city in expectation of receiving money for his possessions, and next morning was run over by a team up by the Temple-ton. Then Mr. Garrison, who knew him, took him to his home, and has kept him ever since. Two months ago his gradually failing strength was so spent that he took to his bed and night before last, at the age of three score and ten, he died. He worked on the coast for forty-eight years. For thirty years of that time he did not care whether he had a roof over his head or not. He was a frontiersman, retreating before advancing population continually. His coming from Deep Creek was a mere accident, and the accident that befell him here prevented his return. His work practically ceased four years ago. And since then he has been simply waiting for the end.

He was a type of thousands of others. He came West with hopes; he wore out his life with hard work; he helped to make the transformation which has been made in the West; knew every ravine in California where gold was formerly found; he knew every sagebrush in Nevada by sight; he lived a cheerful, honest, useful life, and his grave will be the grave of one more pioneer that lived the rough life that those who came after him may live pleasanter ones.

A Spiritualist Here.

Professor Robert Snowden, said to be one of the greatest living mediums arrived in town yesterday morning and took up his quarters at Doctor Fox's residence. Snowden is the young man who predicted accurately the day and date of the death of Chester A. Arthur, and Vice-President Hendrick's, as well as the downfall of "Old Hatch," the famous Chicago grain operator.

His trances are marvelous, and have caused him innumerable visits to sanitariums. He far excels Slater and others claiming the title of King of the mediums that belongs only to himself. He will give private settings every afternoon to a limited number from 2 to 5:30 p. m.
